

Our clearing house

Your complete SuperStream solution

Overview

What does the clearing house do?

Our clearing house¹ allows you to send contribution data for all of your employees to one place with a single payment.

The clearing house distributes data and payments to each super fund on your behalf in a format compliant with the government's SuperStream data and payment standard.

What is SuperStream?

SuperStream is part of the Stronger Super reforms aimed at improving the superannuation system. SuperStream will make it easier to send contribution data and payments to super funds.

What are the benefits of using our clearing house?

Our clearing house:

- Is compliant with the SuperStream standard
- Is free for registered employers
- Saves you time managing super
- Includes clearing house and gateway services
- Enables a 'one file, one payment' approach
- Gives you a choice of file upload or direct entry.

How do I register with Aware Super?

Register online at aware.com.au/employers. New employers get free clearing house access and eligible employees will have access to automatic insurance when they join through you.

Do I have to use the clearing house?

The clearing house is the easiest way for you to become compliant with the SuperStream standard. It allows you to send the data in a simplified format and offers payment flexibility. You may also choose to engage your own suppliers to assist you with becoming compliant.

Do I need to change my data?

The SuperStream standard requires employers to make some formatting changes to contribution data including providing some additional fields. Details are available at aware.com.au/superstream

How do I send you the money?

You can make one payment for all your employees directly to the clearing house by EFT. Payment details will be available when you register for our clearing house solution.

Fees and charges

How much does the clearing house cost?

The clearing house is free of charge for registered employers.

Why does Aware Super cover the cost?

We like to make it easy for employers to deal with us. The clearing house benefits members by making it easier for employers to quickly and accurately make contributions into their accounts.

What are the cost savings?

QuickSuper will enable you to reduce the time and cost involved in sending data and payments to different super funds.

Will my other providers charge me anything?

You may have other providers involved in the process of making super contributions such as your bank, a payroll provider or bureau, accountant or bookkeeper.

Speak with your providers to see if there are any fees associated with using our clearing house. Fees charged by these providers (if any) are payable by you.

Data security & privacy

Is the QuickSuper clearing house a secure provider?

The QuickSuper clearing house is part of Westpac Banking Corporation (ABN 33 007 457 141) – one of Australia's largest and most trusted financial institutions. QuickSuper was selected as our provider for the robustness of its data security, privacy processes and business continuity planning.

QuickSuper security features include:

- data encryption
- file compression
- block validation of transmitted data, and
- audit trail reporting.

What happens with my contribution data?

Employee data you send to our clearing house is used only for the administration of super accounts. A highly secure process is used to distribute data and payments.

Your data is directed as follows:

- Data for your employees who are Aware Super members will come directly to us via the QuickSuper clearing house
- Data for your employees who are members of other super funds will be sent by the QuickSuper clearing house directly to those other funds via their Gateway.

Can Aware Super see my data?

Yes – certain authorised Aware Super representatives have administrative access to see the data you send to the clearing house which enables us to:

- fix teething problems as employers adopt the service
- identify the cause of any technical issues that arise
- monitor and reconcile data volumes
- meet our regulatory reporting obligations, and
- continually improve the service for employers.

We do not communicate with members of other super funds included in your data under any circumstances.

Who else sees my contribution data?

Our trusted partner Mercer Administration Services (Australia) Pty Limited (ABN 48 616 275 980) continues to manage the administration of Aware Super member and employer accounts, including allocating contributions to members' accounts.

Privacy Policy

We follow the Australian National Privacy Principles (NPPs) under the Privacy Act 1988.

- The Aware Super Privacy Policy is available at aware.com.au/privacy
